DUBOIS AND MURPHY WIN TOO

LIE IS PASSED BEFORE CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE

"BRYAN'S WILL IS DONE"

Nebraskan Has the Votes and Opposition is of No Avail; Promise to Carry Fight to Floor

(By John E. Nevin.)

DENVER, Colo., July 8.—The Murphy delegation is seated unanimously by the credentials committee. The anti-Guffeyites won the Pennsylvania contests. The Dubois delegation is seated in the Idaho contest. In the Nineteenth district of Ohio Tom Johnson's delegates won 24 to 22. Roger Sullivan delegates won the Illinois fight.

DENVER, July 8.—Bryan's "pile driver" descended today with a thud that re-echoed back from the banks of the Schuylkill, and when delegates to the national convention reached the scene they found beneath it the battered form of Col. James Guffey, the long-time boss of the Keystone state. Badly mashed he is, but he is still breathing defiance and promises to go battle on the floor of the convention hall that will eclipse any other seen in a democratic convention in years.

The credentials committee after an all night session during which the bosses and bossism was severely denounced, showed its absolute Bryan domination by carrying out the will of the Commoner as expressed through the national committee, and approved with one exception, the temporary roll prepared by that body. The fight in committee was bitter and hard words were exchanged, but Bryan had the votes and his wishes were carried out.

The committee decided to increase the Oklahoma delegates from 14 to 18, which will make the total vote of the convention 1,006, if that body ratifies the committee's report.

The Final Squelching.
Bryan leaders recognize the fact that while Guffey got only 14 votes in the convention, they came largely from big states, and that the vote on the floor will be larger; hence there is a rallying of Bryan forces to support the committee's report on the floor and prevent unit rule in states that voted for Guffey.

A minority report may be presented on the Guffey matter. Friends of the Pittsburgh leader are moving heaven and earth to bring influence enough to bear to force a minority report. If this should be accomplished it is likely the convention will be tied up into long hours tonight before the question is settled.

In order that the committee might be able to adjust the differences amicably if possible, and thus curtail the battle on the floor, adjournment was ordered until 2 o'clock, when it was to get together to prepare formal reports.

Guffey Claims Victory.
Guffey declared at noon that despite the action of the credentials committee, if it should be ratified by the convention, he would succeed himself as national committeeman. "I'll have a majority of one," he declared.

Bryan men dispute this and claim the Pennsylvania delegation by their votes. The delegation will caucus immediately after today's session.

Continuous Session.
DENVER, July 8.—After probably as stormy an all night session as the credentials committee ever held, the democratic national convention permanent roll call was completed this morning.

The committee had been in practically continuous session since 5 o'clock yesterday, hearing evidence in contests, and spent the early hours today in executive convocation, debating their merit. It is expected to be ready to report soon after noon, when the second session is called to order. It was agreed this morning that the Dubois delegates of Idaho will be continued on the roll, although a strong fight has been made for a compromise and split vote; that the Sullivan delegates of Illinois will be seated, and likewise the Tammany allies in Kings county, New York; that the Guffey men will be either dislodged in the Pennsylvania contests or the vote divided with the Bryan men; that the Johnson dele-

BADGERS ARE IN "ME TOO" CHORUS

DENVER DELEGATION NOT SO SPECTACULAR AS BOB'S

RYAN CLIMBS BAND WAGON

Though Majority Is Believed to Favor Manson, Youthful Politician May Lose Fight

(By A. M. Brayton.)

DENVER, July 8.—Wisconsin democrats cannot attract the attention in the Denver convention which Wisconsin republicans did in the Chicago convention. The democracy of Badgerdom is too colorlessly "regular," for nothing in a convention is less spectacular than joining the "me too" chorus under the unit rule. And even were our delegation reactionary and insurrectionary, it could not hope to achieve notability such as did the La Follette men, for the latter were in a class by themselves, neither Tafters nor conservatives, but ultra-radicals whose "sand" and irreverence made their appearance the extravaganza of the G. O. P. gathering. Where all is fantastically radical, radicalism becomes mundane, and the Wisconsin delegation has nothing to distinguish it from the other peas in the pod.

There will be plenty of intra-delegation excitement in Wisconsin, however, for the Manson-Ryan battle for national committeeman is of the "to the last ditch" order, and it means more than the possession of the coveted honor. It means state party rule, the struggle for which, superficially, may be said to be drawn between the young men of the party and the old "war dogs." However, this is inaccurate, for the split is really the old tussle of radicalism against conservatism. The Manson men are, in the main, the leaders of advanced thought, while the Ryan followers are the spokes of the wheel that rotates in the rut of conservatism. Of course, "radicalism" is a relative term, and there is no ultra-conservatism of the Wall street brand in Wisconsin, for as Mr. Ryan puts it, Bryan and La Follette have been running a day and night school of progressiveness. Compared to Tammany's Murphy and Alton B. Parker, Judge Ryan is a radical; compared to the Manson men, he is a conservative. In Denver, he is neither fish nor flesh, but will go far enough with the winning faction to be in the bandwagon.

Fight No Walkaway.
But while Wisconsin is thoroughly inoculated with Bryan progressiveness which is personified in the Manson type, and to which John A. Aylward is said to adhere, Chairman Manson may not have a walk-away in his battle with the Waukesha man. Just as the web of political influence created by long identification with party leadership in progressive Iowa ensnared the votes which elected the reactionary Allison over the liberal Cummins, so may the intricate tendrils with which Judge Ryan clutches his national party "pulls" make possible the inconsistency of his retention and the defeat of the youthful and logical Manson. That the rank and file of the party are for the latter is likely true, but that his opponent may wield with the delegation a power out of proportion to his home prestige is possible.

Stone From Missouri.
Mr. J. E. Welliver, The Tribune's Washington correspondent, dug up a good story on "Gum Shoe Bill" Stone, the Missouri senator who was in the famous filibuster against the Aldrich-Vreeland bill. Denver people are displaying buttons upon which is inscribed, "I live in Denver, ask me." Senator Stone rigged up a button of his own, carefully concealed it under his coat and sallied forth with a series of puzzled "rubberneck" poses which made him a living question mark. In a minute, as anticipated, a hospitable Denverite paused and flashed his button, "I live in Denver, ask me." "Gum Shoe Bill" whisked back his coat, and the button on his manly breast, on which was mounted the long-eared emblem of democracy, said to the volunteer information bureau, "I'm from Missouri, show me."

"What's yours?" demanded the man from Denver, as he lead Senator Stone toward an inviting buffet.

UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN AT HOT SPRINGS TODAY

"Dark Horse" Favored by Eastern Financiers Is Elected and Taft's Choice Will Assist

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 8.—Frank Hitchcock was unanimously chosen chairman of the republican national committee, and George R. Sheldon of New York was elected treasurer today.

With the selection of Hitchcock for national chairman, Taft went into session with the subcommittee of republican party managers at noon. Taft still favored McKinley, of Illinois, for treasurer, but the proposition from Cornelius Bliss was that an eastern dark horse, favored by New York financiers, be chosen treasurer with headquarters in New York, with McKinley as assistant in Chicago.

Elmer Dover has withdrawn objections to serving as secretary with Hitchcock. Just before the session convened Sherman, candidate for vice president, wired from Utica that he is relieved of the chairmanship of the congressional committee, and this somewhat confounded the gathering, but no comment was made.

CONVENTION NOTES.

(By Gilson Gardner.)

DENVER, July 8.—When Col. Guffey rushed to the front of the platform and pawed the air in voiceless fury, everybody did what he or she could to add to the bedlam. A sweet lady reporter turned to a fellow scribe and remarked happily: "Oh, isn't it perfectly lovely; I was so afraid they were not going to do things."

For some reason unexplained the "Lush vote" seems to be solid for Johnson. In the Albany cafe at 2 o'clock this morning Johnson was nominated unanimously.

The noise made by the delegates and townsfolk here is about 16 to 1, as compared with the Chicago convention.

LEISURELY POLISH PLATFORM PLANKS

COMMITTEE WON'T HAVE IT READY TILL THURSDAY

WILL NOMINATE TOMORROW

New York Platform is Submitted but No Argument Made; Night and Day Sessions Held

(By Jacob Waldeck.)
DENVER, Colo., July 8.—Contrary to all precedent the democratic convention committee on resolutions will spend two nights and one day in the construction of the platform.

In all preceding conventions such committees worked all night and as long as necessary the next morning and then turned in a completed job. These Denver builders, because they want to do a particularly artistic job, feel there is no occasion for haste and will be deliberate.

After adjournment a night meeting of the full committee and subcommittee appointed by the chairman, Governor Haskell, was in executive session until 2 o'clock this morning. This committee is said to have been selected by Bryan. After a short sleep and hasty breakfast they resumed their labors at 9 o'clock this morning. They will be at it until this afternoon when they expect to remove to the full committee, which will proceed straightway to the preparation of the final draft of the platform. They figure on reporting to the convention at 10 a. m. Thursday.

"This will give the convention plenty of time to dispose of the platform and nominate a candidate for the presidency. The vice presidential candidate will be named Friday, according to program," said Haskell. The platform prepared by the New York delegation was filed with the committee, but no arguments were made on it.

Negro Offers Votes.
W. T. Ferguson, secretary of the National Negro Political league, was accorded a special hearing by the subcommittee this morning, he having been delayed by floods.

Ferguson announced he came to offer the democratic party the support of the league, which he claims

BRYAN TO DEMAND MAJORITY RULE

WILL APPEAR BEFORE CONVENTION AFTER NOMINATION

TWO-THIRDS UNDEMOCRATIC

Leader Says it Gives Minority Power Over Majority and Will Seek to Have Custom Changed

DENVER, July 8.—A persistent report is in circulation here that Bryan will come to this city after he is nominated to speak before the convention.

"As the plan is all conditioned on Bryan's nomination, it is obviously impossible to deny or affirm the report," declared one of Bryan's associates today, who would be likely to know.

As the story goes the peerless statesman desires to end, with this convention, the traditional custom of two-thirds of the majority for presidential nomination. He regards it as a senseless system, which ought to be corrected. Every year it goes unchanged will make the return to the majority practice more difficult.

The dangerous power of a corrupt minority is the least of Bryan's opposition to the present two-thirds rule. He holds it is of the essence of democracy that the majority should govern. To make it possible for a minority consisting of a trifling over a third to balk the will of the majority is to perpetuate the custom which he believes is charged with grave danger to the party. For this reason he has seriously contemplated coming to Denver and asking a hearing before the convention. He has been told that in no way except by his personal appearance can the change be brought about.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Fully 75 dead and over 200 prostrations recorded, and misery such as the east side never before endured, is the record of three days' torrid torture which fresh breezes ended today. Despite the drop of temperature six deaths and several prostrations are reported today.

PLANK IMPORTANT TO BADGER STATE

ASKS FEDERAL HELP IN RECLAIMING WASTE LAND

MILWAUKEE'S NEW PLANK

Measure is of Importance Here Owing to State Soil Wastage and Lack of Prevention

(By A. M. Brayton.)

DENVER, Colo., July 8.—(Special.)—A plank of some importance to the states having large areas of waste lands, like Wisconsin, has been drawn by W. J. Kershaw of Milwaukee and was presented today before the resolutions committee by Congressman Weisse. The expenditure by the federal government of immense amounts of money for irrigation and reforestation in the west inspired the thought that redeemable lands in older states are entitled to similar consideration.

The Milwaukee man's plank follows: "Recognizing the economic importance of diversified agriculture, we commend the wisdom and patriotism of those states which, in their efforts to impart a knowledge of scientific farming, have established agricultural colleges and having such knowledge when so imparted, should redound in the fullest degree to the advantage of said states, we favor the enactment of such laws that will enable the federal government to assist them at their initiative in reclaiming for homestead purposes the non-productive lands of said states for the benefit of their citizens."

Notwithstanding the fact that Judge Gray this morning reaffirmed his decision not to be a vice presidential candidate it is still hoped that if satisfied of the allegiance of New York he will submit his name.

James T. Lloyd, of Missouri, after a conference with the manager of the Gray bureau said: "I believe that after the Gray managers are convinced that New York will vote for Bryan, of which everybody else is sure, Gray will come out for vice president. He will come out soon enough so he can get the nomination on the first ballot."

"He is the logical man for second place. His conservatism is against Bryan's radicalism would balance the ticket admirably. Gray's record in every position he has filled is so good it overbalances the only point against him, which is his opposition to silver in 1896."

Lloyd and Gray are personal friends.

Badgers Like Douglass.
While the Badger democrats are cautiously avoiding anything that might commit them to a candidacy not in harmony with Mr. Bryan, a canvass of views shows that next to Judge Gray, Governor Douglass of Massachusetts is the personal choice of a majority of the delegates.

MERRY CROWD AT HATFIELD WORKS

HATFIELD, Wis., July 8.—(Special.)—It was a merry crowd which stepped from the La Crosse board of trade special here today, more than three hundred people coming on the trip to view the wonderful works of the La Crosse Water Power company here. The trip was thoroughly enjoyed and was attended by about everyone of prominence in La Crosse. Brief stops were made along the way and at each stop the orchestra accompanying the train delighted the townspeople with selections.

Dinner was served by the Water Power company here and while the men in the party were being shown over the plant in the afternoon the ladies were pleasantly entertained by lunch rides and pleasure seeking parties on the company's artificial lake.

The Immense Plant.
Few people of La Crosse realize the magnitude and the enormity of the colossal Hatfield dam which is being constructed by the La Crosse Water Power company and is now nearly completed. The excursionists to the scene of this stone and concrete structure today had the opportunity to inspect the works.

The dam is built of solid concrete. It is fifty feet wide at the base and is fifty feet high. From shore to shore of the Black River at this point is 494 feet and the dam occupies all the intervening space. It is set in solid granite bed rock. This bed rock has been drilled into for 150 feet with a diamond drill and found solid and the state geologist estimates that there is still another 150 feet of solid bed rock below this.

DENVER, July 8.—Anticipatory of a battle royal on the floor of the convention this afternoon the galleries began to fill before 11 o'clock, despite the fact that the convention was not scheduled to reassemble until noon.

Temporary Chairman Bell, Dahlman, I. K. Dunn, Judge Wade of Iowa, Ollie James and others had a conference in the Brown Palace hotel before the opening at which was decided the procedure to be followed, should a serious fight be precipitated on the floor. It was agreed no attempt would be made to force the previous question and thus stifle debate, unless the Guffey followers become "to rampant" in their denunciation of the majority.

While the hall was filling several delegations paraded the streets. Tammany made its first appearance as a street show, and impressed into service 24 stalwart Indians, the real OSHKOSH, Wis., July 8.—(Special.)—Pink Hawley's team won the first game of the series from the locals yesterday by the score of 4 to 0. The game was played on the new baseball grounds at Oshkosh which were in perfect condition for fast playing, which was the feature of the game on both sides. Jones was in the box for the visitors and allowed but four safe swats, while Burwell for the locals was touched up for a total of eight hits, five of which came in the eighth inning and won the game.

Both teams were fast, the pitchers were both in good form and were given perfect support, not an error being credited against any player. Umpire Bush officiated and his decisions were satisfactory to both teams.

BOTH OWE COMPLETE RECOVERY TO CUTICURA

"In 1884 my grandson, a babe, had an attack of eczema, and after trying the doctors to the extent of heavy bills and an increase of the disease and suffering, I recommended Cuticura and in a few weeks the child was well. He is to-day a strong man and absolutely free from the disease. A few years ago I contracted eczema, and became an invalid. A whole winter passed without once having on shoes, my ankles and nearly from the knees to the toes being covered with virulent sores. I tried practitioners, specialists, dermatologists, etc., to no purpose. My daughter-in-law reminded me of having prescribed Cuticura for my grandson more than twenty years ago. I at once procured the Cuticura Remedies and found immediate improvement and final cure, till to-day, though well along in years, I am as though I had never had that disease. I am well known in the vicinity of Louisville and Cincinnati, and all this could be verified by witnesses. M. W. LaRue, 845 Seventh St., Louisville, Ky., April 23 and May 14, 1907."

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurement, as in acne—all demand remedies of extraordinary virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such stands proven by testimonials of remarkable cures when many remedies and even physicians have failed. One set is often sufficient to cure.

LATONIA CLOSES GATES SUDDENLY

CINCINNATI, O., July 8.—The race track at Latonia, Ky., will be closed tonight for the remainder of the season.

ABE ATTEL AFTER BATTLING NELSON

NEW YORK, July 8.—Abe Attel, the featherweight, today issued a challenge to Battling Nelson, who knocked out Joe Gans in San Francisco last Saturday, to fight for the lightweight championship of the world.

Attel said he already had deposited $2,500 with a New York sporting man to bind the prospective match. The only conditions laid down by Attel are that the men shall weigh in at 133 pounds inside, and that there be a side bet of $5,000.

LOW RATES EAST VIA THE NORTH WESTERN LINE.

Low round-trip rates will be made from points on The North Western Line for the Prohibition National Convention, Columbus, Ohio, July 9th to 13th; G. A. R. Encampment, Toledo, Ohio, August 27th to 30th and Knights of Pythias Conclave, Boston, Mass., July 31st to August 3rd.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS BRINGS $37,500

LONDON, July 8.—The appeal issued by Lord Desborough on behalf of the British Olympic council for funds for the purpose of entertaining the judges, officials, and 2,500 foreign athletes who will take part in the games already has elicited the sum of $37,500. Among the latest contributors is Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who gave $2,500. The government has decided to make the first use of a recent appropriation for entertaining distinguished foreign visitors by giving a banquet to

TURFMAN BEFORE GRAND JURY

NEW YORK, July 8.—It became known that Acting District Attorney Elder of Kings county is preparing to lay before the grand jury on Wednesday a complaint that the race track management is receiving $12 a day from each bookmaker at the course for betting privileges. Mr. Elder is expected to submit to the jury evidence in support of his contention, and it is expected that J. G. Cavanaugh, who was manager of the old betting ring, will be subpoenaed to testify. It is the contention of the bookmakers that they pay $12 for advance information of jockeys, scratches, and added starters of each race, but Mr. Elder asserts this is only a subterfuge.

Noise and Vibration

Without a doubt, the one remaining unpleasant feature of a long distance trip in an auto is the noise and vibration of the explosion motor even when the power plant contains a four or six cylinder motor. When running upon the smooth well kept streets of a City like La Crosse it is possible to imitate to a great degree the smoothness of a WHITE Steamer but who has ever made a long country trip over rough hilly roads in a WHITE and then noted the difference when making a similar trip in the best and most expensive gasoline car?

It is the undivided opinion of tourists generally, whether users of the explosion motor system or of the WHITE system of power generation, that for all around efficiency there is nothing made in the motor car world that is the equal of a WHITE Steamer.

Should you be a "doubting Thomas" let us at least tell you a few facts about the WHITE Steamer before you believe the fiction which you are often asked to accept as fact.

Did you ever drive a White Steamer? If not why not?

THE WISCONSIN IDEA—VII.

A note of warning—if not of alarm, for he seems to be a sort of republican—was sounded by Walter Wellman in a letter to the Record-Herald following the nomination of "Sunny Jim" Sherman, the New York reactionary, as Secretary Taft's running mate. There are two things in Mr. Wellman's letter which indicate a lack of understanding of some things on the inside, a pedantry not usually found in his writings.

One of these occurs in his reference to the assistance La Follette's support of Taft will be to the republican ticket. Those who know, as everybody in Wisconsin does, would have told Mr. Wellman that Mr. La Follette's support of Mr. Taft will be such as to make him unimpeachably "regular" in a party sense, but that his strictures on the Taft platform reflecting upon "deficiencies" of which the democratic platform probably cannot be found guilty, will in effect make his public addresses for Taft powerfully promote the campaign of Mr. Bryan.

The other error into which Mr. Wellman has fallen is in his assumption that the Iowa stand-pat delegation was ready in good faith to work for the nomination of Cummings for vice president. Their plan was to put him up and knock him down. Then they could have gone back to Iowa with the assertion: "We tried to nominate him, but he was a dead one."

Following is that portion of Mr. Wellman's article which bears interestingly upon the injection into the republican propaganda of that "conservatism" which is the antithesis of the "Wisconsin Idea":

"Triumph for the conservative and reactionary wing of the party marked the closing session of the republican convention.

"The nomination of Sherman for vice president is distinctly and decidedly a victory for the men who have opposed the progressive policies of Roosevelt.

"It is a nomination which, according to present signs, will not be well received by those republicans of the middle and farther west who have stood by Roosevelt and his policies. A choice for vice president dictated by Speaker Cannon and by his followers, who have grudgingly given the president the little they have given him at Washington, aided by a coterie of United States senators, could not well be received with enthusiasm by the people of the Mississippi valley and the mountain region to the west.

"Perceiving the weakness and unfitness of this choice, it was yesterday the talk among the more frank republican leaders that they had given Bryan the very opening he wanted. They have afforded him the opportunity to make a tremendous and possibly winning fight for electoral votes in all this section of country round about Chicago and out to and beyond the Rockies.

"What the republican leaders really fear is that Bryan and Johnson will be the answer to Taft and Sherman; a sincerely progressive, but not radical platform at Denver; a strong and not straddling labor plank to meet the republican compromise, and then a desperate effort to split the west wide open in November.

"Recognizing this weakness and these dangers, the republican leaders yesterday were planning to do something to recover the lost ground. They want to make sure of getting La Follette and Beveridge and Dolliver into the campaign. No news of yesterday pleased them, so much as word that La Follette could be depended upon to take the stump in the west for Taft. Thus early comes answer to the question of the bold young men from Wisconsin: 'What are you going to do with the man?' And the answer is that the republicans need him to hold the west in line for the ticket.

"And more than one leader confessed last night that if the democrats at Denver have the wisdom to put Governor Johnson on the ticket with Bryan, the republicans will have sore need of La Follette and all like him who can reach the people before the snow blows in November.

"The blunder of the nomination of Sherman, the stand-patter, the unknown and the ill-fitted, is one for which President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft cannot be held directly responsible. It is not a nomination that was made as a concession. Often the vice presidency has been deliberately accorded to the losing faction as a bribe for good feeling and co-operation. That was not the case this time. The Taft management simply accepted Sherman, and accepted him unwillingly, because, under the peculiar circumstances which existed, it could not well do anything else. No one in the Taft councils, either here or at Washington, was satisfied with Sherman, but they were not in position to oppose him. And they were not in position to oppose him because the Allison Perkins dog-in-the-manger faction from Iowa had taken away from the administration forces the practicability of utilizing the one man those forces cared to make a fight with against the Cannon-oligarchy-senatorial—stand-pat scheme to 'land' one of their own kind in the chair at the north end of the capitol, and in the White House itself in case of accident.

"And the consistency of the attitude of the Iowa faction is also very charming. When they first came here and started out to defeat Dolliver, the choice of the president and Mr. Taft, it was with the plea that if Dolliver became vice president Cummings would become senator. Well, what was the matter with that? Matter enough. This man Cummings was a dangerous radical, a firebrand, a populist, a democrat. He was worse than La Follette, and how would the party like to have two or possibly three La Follettes in the senate? But when it was suggested that it might be a good thing to get this trouble-maker out of the state by sending him to Washington as vice president, they actually turned round and endorsed him and determined to present him to the national party and sound his virtues with all proper eloquence. It did not take long for him to change from a dangerous demagogue into a patriot worthy elevation to the presidential seat. And as for La Follette, the horrible example—he is the man the party is now calling up to take the stump and help save the day among the discontented progressives of the west. Politics is a funny game, indeed."

STOP WATERING STOCK

The prominence which the republican party will attach in the coming campaign to the supervision of railroad securities by federal authorities makes exceedingly interesting the recent plans of the public utilities commission of New York to acquire strict control over securities.

This commission will issue an order that bonds authorized by the corporations under their control and consent must sell them to the public directly and not through the medium of any syndicate. Heretofore, such securities have usually been bought en bloc by bankers or a syndicate, and they have been doled out to the public at a price which would give the bank or the syndicate an enormous profit. This was equivalent to the watering of securities, since the syndicate not only obtained a fair profit for its work, but a rake off so large on a big issue of bonds as to net several million dollars.

Not only will this order of the commission affect bonds, but the plan is to extend it to stocks as well, so that the public will pay only for the stock and not be held up for an exorbitant profit for the middle man or the syndicate. The corporations will profit correspondingly in getting bigger returns from security issues and stockholders, it is held, will gain in the end.

The commission also proposes to do away with the practice which gives the old shareholders of a corporation opportunity to get the new securities more cheaply than outsiders do. Everybody will buy the securities at a uniform price and none will have special privileges.

The public sale system prevails with public service corporations in England and it is expected to work out not only in New York city but in New York state despite the dubious grumblings of the bankers and syndicate operators.

Will the public buy securities more readily under the new regime of government control or will the corporations be forced to get the service of syndicates to sell their securities at all? The sale of such issues directly to the public will destroy one opportunity for a big grab of illegitimate profits which has characterized most of these transactions. The secret negotiation of sale has made these ill gotten gains possible. The proceeds of such loans will, therefore, be increased and the confidence of the public should be increased.

Municipal issues always sell for a lower rate of interest than do the securities of public utility corporations. With stringent control of the public service issues, the security be-

THE IRON LORD

A Hitherto Unpublished Story of Immense Power.

S. R. CROCKETT.

When the Healthy Family girls ran they did not hold up their dresses. Of that there was no need. If a dress impeded the wearer in a race, or a heel caught in a flounce, Jessica instantly produced a pair of scissors and shortened the offender to convenient proportions, while Jean "basted" the new hem, the needle following hard in the wake of the clipping blades. It was the work of a minute. Then they ran on again, holding their skirt-pockets. These were heavy, and quite naturally so, Jean's contained household necessities, "hussies," and balls of twine—Jessica's scissors in wooden nests, and all the apparatus of first aid for the wounded (Jessica was her father's favorite and even lent a hand at minor operations). Wilhelmina, or the She-Twin, possessed a "skirt-pocket" too, but it contained nothing save a few very worn sweets, hoary chocolates, and stones to catapult Jack with. Jack was a fox-terrier who went rabbiting, refusing to come to heel when so commanded. "Now, infants," said Vida, laying a hand on a shoulder of each of the Twins, "do keep your feet still. If you want to stay where you are, don't damage my ivy plants."

"I say," cried Willie, the "He-Twin," "Vie Morris has got a girl!"
"I wish, Master William Calmont," retorted his sister, "that you would speak the King's English. You mean, I presume, that Mr. Ludovic Morris has engaged himself to be married."

"I mean nothing of the sort, and you know it," sneered her brother, trying to snatch a somewhat fresher rhubarb-stock out of her hand. "I mean Vie has got a girl and is going walks with her. I saw him. All our girls here are mad about it!"
With one voice his sisters denounced to the company the absolute unconditioned falsehood of Little Willie's statement.

"Mr. Morris," observed Wilhelmina, serenely, "has a sister who has doubtless come to visit him. She stays with friends over at Garvie, and walks here through the Gormach wood. It's a wonder you have not seen her, Vida!"

"Sister—rubbish!" cried the He-Twin, shrilly, dominating the conversation. "I know sisters—I ought to, I've got three, haven't I? Little Willie doesn't look at sisters that way—no, nor put ties fresh and fresh evening when we take them out to walk! Do we, brothers glorious?"
"Not much!" said Aaron and Herbert together, with their eyes fixed on Vida, to the absolute disregard of mere sisterly relationships.

"Why," said Wilhelmina, "you've all got your Sunday ties on now, and you were only coming over the wall with us!"

There fell a sudden silence after this remark. Aaron and Herbert became interested in a fly-casting round Hur's hat which he held on his knee and turned round and round. The little music-mistress relieved the situation by asking when Aaron and Hur were going back to college. But before there was time to answer, the sound of a gong at the farther side of the Doctor's wall caused the Healthy Family to rise and, with hasty unanimous fluttering, vault back over at the angle where the worn foot-holes were. Clump—clank they went on the cube sugar-box.

They bade adieu. Apologies were not thought of. "By Jove, look sharp, I say," cried Wilhelmina, poking her twin to mount more quickly; "if you dally with our fate like that, father will have wolfed all the boiled mutton and new potatoes before we get there!"

"My favourite dish!" cried Willie; "why didn't you tell me. I will bound like a Barbary steed!"
"My beautiful, my beautiful, that standest meekly by—" he sang as got into position.

"That I just won't! Not when it's mutton with caper sauce! Stand meekly by yourself, Master Willie!" And the whole concave were gone in a swirl, like a flock of migratory birds that had alighted for a while on Vida's wall and garden-seat.

"Oh, thank heaven, they're gone!" said the little music-mistress, sinking back, "they were giving me a headache."

"They always give me a headache!" said a quiet voice from behind the trellis on which Old Abraham's tropeoleum was beginning to put forth its dainty crimson petals against the background of dark moss-green. "Yes, all the time!"

The two girls started up, and as they looked round, they caught sight of Philip Calmont, tall, lissom, and imperturbable—the least overpowering of the Healthy Family.

"Why, Phil, what are you doing there?" said Vida, "why haven't you gone to share in the mutton and caper sauce? They will eat it all up!"
"I know they will," said Philip, resignedly, as he seated himself on the grass and nursed his knee, outlining the cap, and squinting with one eye to see how far it was off the straight. "And I don't care. They are always eating. It tires me, and then father is never the same two days running. We have got to have dinner at all sorts of hours, whenever he turns up off his 'round!'"

"Won't they miss you?" murmured the music-teacher, gently. She had a weakness for all the oddments of the world, being herself one of the misfits and selvages of society.

"Miss me!" said Phil Calmont, looking down the long lean perspective of his leg to a rather shabby boot in the distance. "Not while there is anything left to eat!—And I rather hoped—" he went on and then stopped.

"What did you hope, Phil?" Vida was smiling at him encouragingly.

"That you would give me some tea quietly, after the cormorants were out of the way. I knew they wouldn't stay long."

"Of course, Phil!" said Vida, gladly. And she moved toward the cottage. "Dick Finnan will be home in a quarter of an hour and you can have it with him!"

"Better give him a cup out here with us," said the music-teacher, kindly. For she had seen Phil Calmont's face fall at the suggestion of Dick Finnan which however Vida had made in all innocence.

"Oh, thank you!" said Phil, gratefully, in a low voice as Vida went to the cottage. "She's wonderful, isn't she?"

"Not so wonderful as I am!" said the little music-mistress.

"Why?" asked Phil, looking up with wide, vague blue eyes, startled at her tone.

"Because I also am a woman and not jealous!"

CARNIVAL CROWDS ON OPENING NIGHT

ONLY 3 SHOWS OPENED LAST EVENING

FULL BLAST THIS AFTERNOON

Big Throngs Are in a Good Humor and Indications Are the Entertainment Will Be Big Success

A large number of people turned out last night to the North side carnival, but on account of a delay in transportation the management did not receive all of the paraphernalia and the result was that there were but three shows that were ready last evening, the Orpheum Vaudeville show, the Jesse James and the Younger Brothers and moving picture shows.

The large crowds that turn out, if last night is an example, will undoubtedly make the carnival a successful one and even when the shows did not open last evening they seemed to retain their happy attitude and announced their intention to come tonight.

His New Sensation.

A North side man who had "been there before," tells this little anecdote, hoping that it will be taken to heart and prove a lesson to those who stay away and miss the good times at the carnival.

"Do you know what it is to be really embarrassed? If you do not, go to the Orpheum theatre at the carnival and take a front seat in the bald-headed row. I consider myself a man who is able to withstand the charms of the most beautiful woman the North side can produce. (Here he swelled up his chest and commented on the number of them in that part of the city.) I bought my ticket and took a seat in the aforesaid row. The whole program was fine, but I will mention only one part of it. The piano had just begun to play "Sleep, Lena, Sleep," as I was dozing, and I woke up not liking to be called "Lena." A little girl, gee, but she was a peach, about 15 years of age, danced out on the platform amid the applause of a full tent. After a few preliminary skirmishes she began to sing a song about "Lonely." She must have thought I was the best looking guy in the house, because she began to make goo-goo eyes at me and point her hands at me as she sang. My face began to assume a sunburned expression and at the beginning of every verse I sank lower and lower in my seat. The people in the house began to titter and some of the fellows even wished they were me. I tried to look unconcerned as if I had been a summer boarder all my life and as if I was used to it, but my face slipped and gave me away. When she got through singing I crawled out under the side of the tent lap and took a breath of fresh air. I went right straight to Figge's store and telephoned a newspaper so that the rest of the fellows would get wise and go there too."

Looks Good Today

The carnival presents a better appearance this morning than it did yesterday. The final touch was put on all the shows and electric lights were installed on the frame for the aerial acrobatic work in the big vaudeville show, given by William Brandon. The crowd last night was fairly orderly and no trouble was experienced by the police in controlling them. Tonight there will undoubtedly be a much larger attendance, so unusual

TWO FACTORIES FOR NORTH SIDE

PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE WILL CONSIDER THEM TONIGHT

MINNESKA BOAT BUILDER

Promised to Attend Tonight's Meeting and George M. Bingham Will Present Corset Proposition

The North Side Progressive league meets tonight and although a large attendance is not expected there will be some rather important matters brought up.

The Minneska boatbuilder, L. W. Abrams, said that he would be present at the next league meeting, but as yet nothing further has been heard from him. The boat Minneska built by him took first place in the Lake City races on the Fourth of July, so it is evident that he is a first class builder. The entries of the race included all the best boatbuilders' products on the upper Mississippi, and there can be no doubt but that the factory would be a success here. There are a number of ideal locations where the company could start up and the North side sentiment seems to be in favor, which makes the matter appear as though if this proposition is reasonable, inducements will be offered.

George M. Bingham will bring up his proposition in regard to locating a corset factory here. This is also regarded as a good thing, so the matter will be given considerable attention. Other small matters will be taken up beside the regular routine of business.

NORTH SIDE WANTS BIKE PATH FIXED

There is considerable talk among the people of the North Side of petitioning the board of public works to improve the bicycle path on the causeway. The path is said to be in poor condition and the clam shell dressing is claimed to cut the tires of the wheels in an alarming manner. There must be a new dressing on the whole path before it will be in good condition, it is said.

JAMES O'LEARY FAST RECOVERING

Reports have been received from Tomah to the effect that Engineer James O'Leary who was severely scalded at the roundhouse Sunday afternoon is speedily recovering from the severe burns he received.

NORTH SIDE BRIEFS.

Mrs. George Fuller and Miss Rosa Minnigh of New Orleans are guests at the home of A. W. Fuller for a few days.

Earl Higbee has returned from an extended visit to Fargo, N. D. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vaughn of Avon street, a 10-pound boy, yesterday afternoon.

Gorman Brothers' circus of 30 cars went through on the Milwaukee for Sparta, where they will show.

precautions will be taken to prevent any rowdiness on the streets.

The biggest show on the streets will probably be William Brandon's big vaudeville show. This will have a large electric lighted stage so that the best facilities for a good show will exist. The show will include the Murphy, Fox and the Johnson Brothers. There will be a female impersonator who will deceive any one who does not know his identity.

The big free acts will take place this afternoon at 4:30 and in the evening.

THEY'RE ALL FOR BRYAN SAYS PARKER

DELEGATE FROM SALEM SAYS PEERLESS IS IT

REMARKABLE GENERALSHIP

Strong Force of Man Who Has Twice Led in Unsuccessful Fight, Shown in Present Power

(By W. H. Powell.)

DENVER, Col., July 8.—William Jennings Bryan was born in Illinois, "down Salem-way," and to judge from the number of his old friends and school mates who have been announcing themselves here during the last few days, there are not enough people left in Salem to hold a town meeting. About the most determined, can't-forget-it Bryan booster from Illinois is George T. Parker, one of the delegates from the Twenty-third district, of which Salem is a part. He began to exude Bryan enthusiasm before the ink was dry where he had scrawled his signature on the hotel register, and he is still at it.

Twenty-three? Nothing to It

Someone suggested to Mr. Parker that the fact that Mr. Bryan hailed originally from a district bearing that fateful number, "23," accounted for his defeats, but Mr. Parker froze the impudent one with a stare.

"Why, he's going to win this time," said the Illinois man, as if he were imparting some information that his questioner should have learned with his A. B. C.'s and his "Now I lay me." "Why, man, Illinois is for Bryan from start to finish," he continued, "and in his old section of the state everybody is for him—men, women and children, republicans as well as democrats. And we are not only for him for president but we are for him idea and his principles and for anything he may favor in the future."

Now, that is going some, but that's the way Mr. Parker feels and he doesn't care a rap who knows it.

Idol of the Democracy

It is an interesting fact, and just as true as it is interesting, that Mr. Bryan, despite his two defeats after enthusiastic nominations, is still the idol of his party. "Idol" is a good word to use in the premises, for Mr. Bryan comes as near to running the whole show as anyone could. His wishes are consulted about every detail. He selected the principal speakers and he will dictate the action on the resolutions which will be proposed for the platform. Unless a storm blows down all the telegraph and telephone wires between Denver and Lincoln before this convention closes Mr. Bryan will certainly be, throughout the whole proceedings, the ruler. His sway is absolute, his title is undisputed.

And it is not because they fear him that they do his will. It is because they admire him. Some of them love him, this man who has, for twelve years, held a following of democrats so solidly in his support that now after twelve years of reverses, he can have them do exactly his bidding.

"Their not to reason why," theirs but to do and keep doing—whatever their leader tells them to do. And though he rules with a rod of iron when his will is crossed, he has some happy means of control which holds his cohorts loyal, even through defeats. Nobody can lead when victory follows a victory and defeat is unknown; but it takes a general indeed to rally his followers around him after repeated repulses and, still at their head, move against the foe with unbroken front and undaunted spirit.

WOOD PULP SCARCE; MANY SUBSTITUTES

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 8.—Agitation for removal of the tariff on wood pulp, denunciation of the chimera of a paper trust, protestations on the part of manufacturers of the growing scarcity of wood available for paper making, all call attention to the fact that the materials for thousands of miles of paper annually go to waste in America.

A practical paper-maker recently called attention to a few of the sources of enormous waste, when speaking of the number of materials in America's refuse heap, which are worth while considering as promising substitutes for wood pulp.

The northwest annually produces a million and a half tons of flax stalks which are not now used for anything. That amount of waste remains after the twine makers take all they want. It makes excellent paper.

The farmers in the south burn or plow under 12 million tons of cotton stalks every year. That which is plowed under is not wholly lost, for it enriches the soil to some extent, but not so with what goes up in smoke.

Five hundred thousand tons of fiber have been adhering to cotton seed every year. It has been fed to farm stock along with the seed and has done the stock no good. Cattle and sheep do not like the fiber and the seed cake is better without it. A machine has been invented which, it is claimed, will separate the lint from the seed. Paper makers think they can use it.

Nobody knows how many million tons of cornstalks go to waste; but in quality they are far ahead of cotton stalks, and it is believed they can be made into paper, although it has not yet been done on a commercial scale.

Why not know true comfort at home evenings with a case of

Thousands of acres of wild hemp grow in the southwestern part of the country, particularly along the Colorado river. Its only use now is to shelter jack rabbits and coyotes, but it has splendid fiber and tests on a small scale show that excellent paper can be made from it.

Paper making from straw is a well-established industry. Bookbinders use thousands of tons of strawboard. The straw which goes to waste in western wheat fields would bring fortunes if made into paper.

Lists of fibrous or woody plants suitable for paper are almost without limit, but only a few may be had in quantity sufficiently large to be worth considering.

The time has not yet come when it is absolutely necessary that substitutes for wood pulp be found, but it is coming. The forests are still able to furnish materials for paper, but they cannot continue to do so for a great many years to come, at the present rate of cutting and growth. Makers of paper anticipate a scarcity of pulp wood and it is this which prompts the active search now going on for substitutes.

Many a man is lonesome because other men are particular about their associates.

FEST ADVERTISERS GO TO HATFIELD

Mr. Harry H. Long of the Gund Brewing company, and George B. Fredericks, advertising manager of the Tribune, attended the Hatfield excursion today, given by the board of trade, as representatives of the advertising committee of the Saengerfest. The delegates were well supplied with attractive and interesting advertising matter that will be distributed on the excursion and at the places enroute to assist in the success of the fest here this month.

Chairman Whittier of the committee stated this morning that the replies were being received in large numbers from those wishing information about the fest, and states that every day the estimates of attendance is growing larger.

Information was received this morning from the secretary of the Saengerfest held at Indianapolis in which the secretary sends a large amount of advertising and plans used in making a success of the fest held in that city.

"I don't believe in this medicine. If I take it I know I shall be wuss, and if I don't take it my old woman will nag at me till she makes me wuss. So, as I've got to be wuss anyway, I guess I'll take it."

"LET'S SEE. HAVE I OVERLOOKED ANYBODY?"

SOCIETY

CAMPING PARTY

A gay party of young women, chaperoned by Mrs. D. G. McMillan left yesterday for a week's outing at Idlewild, the popular Steves resort at Hokah. They took with them a good supply of everything necessary for a comfortable as well as a jolly good time, and under the espionage of their careful and experienced chaperone, who will at all times do all that she can to promote their pleasure, parents and friends of the young ladies can feel assured of their safety and happiness. In the party are the Misses Anna Colman, Helen Scofield, Margaret Crosby,
Margaret Burnham and Mary Anderson.

LAUNCH PARTY

A jolly crowd went to French island Sunday, the 5th of July, in the J. I. Steves launch and picnicked on the island. Mr. J. I. Steves and wife proved a worthy host and hostess, and entertained their guests charmingly. Games, dancing and baseball were indulged in and as there was a shower in the morning, Mr. Steves threw the house open to the guests, and tables were set in the dining room instead of on the lawn. All present reported a lovely time, and arrived home at about 9 p. m. The party was comprised of Messrs. and Mesdames Joe Bodette, A. Boucher,
Wm. Niebel, Wm. Drake, J. I. Steves,
John Harget, the Misses Ida Cresse, Catherine Jones, Minnie Harget and Cordia Boucher, and Messrs. Rudie
Bean, Alpha Boucher, Percy Drake, Clarence Drake, Gus Gotsky, Mr. Slocum and Will Manning.

A DAISY COFFEE

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. John Bayer entertained thirty-five ladies at a delightful coffee given in honor of Mrs. Karner of Spokane, Wash.

The decorations were daisies of which there was a great profusion in every room. The tables were also centered with large bunches of the same flower. Other strangers present were Mrs. Martin of Milwaukee and Miss Hines of Wells, Minn.

Mrs. Genevieve Caldwell entertained a dozen ladies Tuesday afternoon at a pleasant and informal coffee.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Mrs. W. L. Martin of Minneapolis is the guest of Mr. W. E. Sawyer.
Mr. Thaddeus Brindley, late of Hinsdale, Ill., is spending a few weeks with his parents.

Mrs. J. B. Canterbury left this noon for Grand Rapids, where she will visit her niece, Mrs. Rice.

with Mr. and Mrs. Otto Solberg.

BODY TAKEN TO STERLING, ILL.

The remains of C. Chaplan, superintendent of the plant of the La Crosse Plow company, who died Saturday at the St. Francis hospital after a two months' illness from Bright's disease, were sent to Sterling, Ill., to be buried Monday. Funeral services were held in that city and interment was made there Tuesday.

Mrs. Chaplan and her three children accompanied the remains and will return to La Crosse in about a week. The family resides at Ninth and King streets. Mr. Chaplan had been superintendent of the plow works for about a year.

FUNERAL OF DR. BEEBE OF SPARTA

SPARTA, Wis., July 8.—(Special).—Dr. Dewitt Beebe, who died Saturday, July 4, at about 8 p. m., at his home on North Water street,
from heart trouble, was born April, 1838, at Rupert, Vermont. He studied medicine in his native state and graduated from a medical college in Albany, N. Y., in 1862. Soon after he entered the army as assistant surgeon of the Fourth New York cavalry. He served for a year and a half and then became surgeon of the regiment. He continued in this capacity until the term of service was up. Then he accepted a position as acting staff surgeon in the United States army and was mustered out of the service in Washington.

He was married to Mary Sheldon at West Rupert, Vt., August, 1863.
After leaving the army he moved to Sparta.

He served many years as a member and director of the school board.
He was elected mayor of the city for the years, 1904 and 1905, and filled his position creditably.

Two years ago he was elected postmaster and helped greatly in obtaining the free city delivery.

He was very prominent in the Grand Army and a member of the Masonic order, also a United Workman, Modern Woodman and Royal Arcanum.

His membership in the Congregational church and active participation in its work is part of the history of the church. Those of the family who still remain to mourn his loss are his wife, Mrs. Beebe, his sons, Carl M. and Spencer D., and two daughters, Mrs. Philip Bertrand and Miss Alice. The eldest daughter,
Julia, died in 1879.

The funeral services were held from the home Monday at 4:30 p. m.
Rev. F. W. Walker Pugh, assisted by Rev. L. A. Brenner, officiated. The John W. Lynn post, G. A. R., attended in a body and gave the burial service of the Grand Army at the interment in Woodlawn cemetery.

The wealth of floral offerings, the beautiful tribute to the life and work of the deceased by Rev. Pugh and the singing by the quartette, Messrs.
Williams, Jones, Baldwin and Barlett, and also the large number who came to pay the last respects were feature of the service at home.

At the grave the burial service of the Grand Army fittingly closed the last rites over the remains of him who had gone to his final rest and who had in life played so well his part.

Faint heart never won fair lady,
and it's much the same with a faint bank account.

GRAVEL PIT IS PUZZLING STUDENTS

"FIND" MADE ON THE NEW MIN-DORO ROAD

MYSTERY IN ITS ORIGIN

La Crosse Said to Be in Driftless Area of Glacial Period and River Never Touched Spot

A freak of nature's that may prove to be a hard question for scientists to answer was discovered on the new West Salem road recently when the workmen ran into a heretofore unheard of gravel pit.

The men who are engaged in the construction of the new road were working in the vicinity of Mindoro when they unearthed the "find."

The question that is bothering local students of geology is how the deposit was placed. As far as is known such deposits are made by but two things—a river or a glacier. Although it is claimed that at one time the Mississippi had its course over the site of the city of La Crosse, yet it was never claimed that it ran in the section where the gravel pit is located. The glacier that is said to have passed over North America at one time is supposed to have broken at a spot a number of miles north of here and gone in two directions, east and west, and La Crosse is now located in what is known as the driftless area. The glacier moved east and then down the Ohio, down the Mississippi and up the Missouri, and thence into the Pacific ocean.

A number of La Crosse people have signified their intention of writing to the scientists at the University of Wisconsin for an explanation of the freak.

Every clergyman is anxious to bring his people together when he might be more successful if he could only keep them apart.

CITY NEWS

BAND GAVE PICNIC.—The Fourth of July picnic at Onalaska, which was reported as having been given by the Woodmen, was as a matter of fact given under the auspices of the Onalaska Cornet band.
The boys had charge of all the ar-sketches in the contest for the reason that the board refused to have an expert judge the competition.

CHILD DIES.—Fannie, the 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denny Hastings, 1008 Mississippi street, died Tuesday afternoon of pneumonia. The little girl had been sick for but a short time and the death came unexpectedly. The funeral arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. Theo. Mannstedt and will be announced later.

Join in a Big Picnic

The William Doerflinger Company Employees' Mutual Benefit association held a meeting last evening and completed plans for their third annual picnic to be held next Wednesday afternoon. The steamer E. Rutledge has been chartered and the employees and their friends will take a trip up the river to Dakota park, where supper will be served.

According to a plan started last year a number of the stores in the business center of the city have agreed to close Wednesday afternoons during the months of July and August, and the Doerflinger employees have extended an invitation to the employees of all the other stores to attend the annual outing of their organization.

Baseball games, races and various other amusements are being arranged and Kreutz's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

The committee in charge of the arrangements expect to have the various subcommittees named within a few days.

SPARROWS EXECUTE THEIR COMPANION

CHICAGO, July 8.—Fashionable Buena park is excited over the execution of a little English sparrow. In no other part of the city are birds so welcome as Buena park. Although Buena park takes care of its feathered visitors, no scheme has as yet been devised to prevent the murder of a sparrow by its companions.

The highest point of a tall tree in front of the home of Willard P. Stearns, president of the Buena Park Citizens' association, was chosen as the place of execution.

Six sparrows escorted a seventh to the top of the tree and there hanged the bird. The victim was suspended by its feet.

J. D. McCune, manager of the Northwestern National Insurance company, declared the victim had been executed by the other birds, probably for some crime in birdland.

Crowds of men, women and children gathered in front of the Stearns and McCune homes and gazed at the dead bird.

"It was the most remarkable thing I ever saw," declared Mr. Stearns. "The little sparrows wound something about the legs of their condemned fellow. The victim was then forced from the branch and hanged. It was impossible to reach the bird. At first the bird struggled to escape, but the cords held and it finally grew weaker until they flutters ended in death."

BOYS WRECK FAIR FURNITURE

George Wiedeman, Alfred Senska and Bernard Senska, ranging in age from 9 to 12 years, have been arrested by the police on the charge of breaking into the offices at the south of the fair grounds and breaking the furniture and everything in the vicinity of the building. The misdemeanor is supposed to have occurred during the day when Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show was in La Crosse.

The boys were taken to the police station this morning and later allowed to go to appear at the station again at 3 o'clock this afternoon when they will be turned over to Secretary Van Auker of the fair association.

MILITIA LEAVES SATURDAY FOR CAMP

Companies M and B of the W. N. G. will leave La Crosse at 7 a. m. Saturday morning over the C. M. and St. P. on a special train for Camp Douglas where they will remain during the encampment of the Third regiment.

Both companies will go to camp this year with nearly their full enlistment. Co. M will have 68 men. The men will go into camp immediately in the Sibley conical tents instead of in bivouac camp as last year. Co. M this year will occupy first position in all parades and their street will be the first. This is because of the seniority of Captain Rawlinson. Co. B will occupy the fourth street.

SURROUNDING TOWNS SEND DELEGATIONS

The committee in charge of the velling of the monuments of the Woodmen of the World have received notices from the lodges at Winona, West Salem, Trempealeau, Sparta and other surrounding places stating that they are planning on sending large delegations July 19. The Winona lodge is planning on sending the entire company and will come on an excursion on the river.

Attorney W. F. Wolfe has been appointed chief orator of the day and will deliver the leading address. State Secretary W. G. Moss of Milwaukee and E. C. Raymond will also deliver orations during the ceremonies.

MENTION OF BRYAN SPARK IN POWDER

things, who made a picturesque appearance clad in their flaming blankets, feathered head-dress and gorgetts, as they strode stolidly ahead of the Manhattan braves, the latter resplendent in silk top hats, black broadcloth and canes.

California, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Connecticut delegations and the Dahlgren democracy of Omaha also paraded prior to the opening.

As the delegates took their seats they discussed the prospects of an exciting session, and all agreed the test vote on unseating Guffey delegates would give a fairly accurate light on the strength of the Bryanites, as the Nebraskan had sent absolute orders that the Pittsburg boss be crushed.

It was 12:25 when Bell rapped for order. There was the usual difficulty in clearing the aisles and getting seated. When order was restored, a prayer was offered by Rev. C. F. Reissner, of Grace Methodist church.

Milwaukee Marching Club Immediately after the prayer the chairman gave the signal and the Milwaukee Marching club headed by Mayor David B. Rose, paraded through the hall.

Senator T. F. Grady of New York, chairman of the committee on rules and order business, made a report which was unanimously adopted. They were practically the same as four years ago. Bell explained the other committees were not ready to report.

Delegate Martin then presented resolutions on the death of Chairman Jones of Arkansas, which were unanimously adopted.

Convention Joke The convention was convulsed when the clerk read a notice that John S. Whalen, secretary for the state of New York was wanted on the long distance telephone by Governor Hughes.

That the republican governor should want to talk over 2,000 miles by wire to a democratic state official, seemed a real joke. Chairman Bell remarked: "This is no laughing matter; we should be encouraged and consider this a sign that the democrats are getting together."

An invitation from Jane Jefferson of the democratic club to visiting ladies caused some merriment. It welcomed "democratic women" and "women of like political faith."

Adjournment Lost Another roar went up when the chairman announced the Michigan delegation had "lost its bible" and asked him to report it at headquarters at once.

Ollie James was then recognized and announced the committee on credentials couldn't report until 8 tonight. He moved for a recess until that hour but wild cries of "No, no," went up from the spectators in the galleries who were clearly displeased. After two votes the chairman declared the motion lost.

Taylor Ducks At once wild shouts of "Taylor," "Taylor," caused attention to be focused on the senator seated on the platform. He didn't respond, however, and some one signaled the cowboy band. It started a medley which started hands and feet swinging. While the band was playing "Bobby" Taylor started toward the exit, despite delegates who clung to him and lost himself in the anteroom. A committee was named to hunt for Taylor but could not find him.

Gore Makes Hit The chairman then invited Towne to speak. He also was among the missing. Gore, of Oklahoma, was called and escorted to the platform. Amid wild cheering he presented a striking, albeit pathetic, figure as he took his place on the rostrum. He made a hit with his first remark: "I'm directed to state the Michigan bible has been found in the den of the Tammany tiger. I saw it there on exhibition as a curiosity."

"Oklahoma rejoices with you as she puts on her first long dresses and sits down here at the first table with the guests. If there are any delegates who want to know about anything just ask Oklahoma, and she'll tell you it's true. The president of the United States said in his opinion our constitution wasn't fit for publication, but this is only on a par with many opinions of the president of this country. The great secretary of war came to Oklahoma and told us to do what the Anglo-Saxon race never done, reject the opportunity of self-government; but we secured liberty to ourselves by a majority of over 100,000, rejecting the advice of Taft, and accepting the advice of the greatest living apostle of human liberty, William J. Bryan."

A Spark in the Powder.

It was a spark in a powder magazine.

With a yell Nebraska was on its feet.

"Bryan, Bryan, hurrah, hurrah," went up the yell, and one after another of the delegations joining in the tumult.

The gallery band was playing, but no one knew the tune. Among the howling delegations it was noticed that New York didn't join; neither did Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia nor Minnesota.

At 1:27 Iowa's standard was snatched from its moorings and started at the head of the parade through the hall.

Tammany Stands Pat The howling delegations were quickly followed by Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Michigan and pretty soon nearly all the other states. But as twelve years ago, New York "stood pat," its state banner protected by big "Tim" Sullivan and Alton Parker, remained in place.

At 1:45 there was no sign of the confusion abating. The band struck up "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here," and the crowd took up the refrain. Everybody is now getting warm and dignified delegates are shedding their long black coats and waving them about their heads. At 1:55 a bunch of breathless, collarless delegates ruled by the press stand and gasped, "How much longer to beat the Roosevelt yelling?"

"Fifteen minutes longer," was the response, and they went.

Murphy Sings The band struck up "Tammany." This caught the crowd who began singing the stirring Indian song. Murphy, the real "big chief," just leaned further back in his chair and his usually impassive face took on a scornful sneer.

making 300 feet of solid granite on which the dam is built.

Built in Sections.

The huge dam had to be constructed in sections. The regular dam is built at the foot of a small island in the Black river just opposite the little town of Hatfield. Cofferdams were built at the head of the island so as to drain out both halves of the river while the dam was in construction. From the west side of the dam a canal carries the water down stream for a distance of 2 1/2 miles along the western bank of Black. This canal terminates in concrete head works from which the water goes down through huge steel penstocks into the McCormick turbines in the power house. These turbines are made with a runner or wheel on each end of the water wheel shaft and are rated at over 4,000 horsepower per unit.

The electric equipment is supplied by the General Electric company, and will ultimately consist of 2,400 kw., 60 cycle, 3 phase, 2,300 volt alternating current and revolving field generators.

The Power House. The power house, containing the equipment is 145 feet long, 57 wide and 34 feet high. It is built of Halcyon brick upon concrete foundations.

From the generators the current goes through the switches, etc., into step up transformers by means of which the pressure is raised to 4,500 volts. This is the actual pressure at which the power will be transmitted to La Crosse and Winona.

The cost of the entire dam and power house will amount to one million and a half dollars.

The ladies were entertained by launch rides and other amusements, while the men were shown through the works.

On the return trip the train will stop at every station for about twenty minutes while the excursionists are entertained by band concerts. The train will reach La Crosse about 11 o'clock this evening.

BRYAN PILE-DRIVER FALLS ON DUFFY

Gates will be seated in the Nineteenth Ohio district, and the Barber men in the Ninth Ohio district, and the regulars in the District of Columbia.

The committee is said to be badly divided, but it was expected all questions in dispute would be amicably settled before adjournment and that there would be no minority report.

Idaho Contest Public.

The first contest heard was Idaho, and was the only one in which the general public was witness. Arguments in this case absolutely similar to those made before the national committee at Monday's session.

It was when the Illinois contests were taken up and read that the fire-works started. George F. Mulligan, opening for the so-called Bobby Burke contestants, declared Sullivan sent delegates whose election was "consummated through deceit and debauchery." He declared Sullivan and his friends had wrecked the democratic party in Illinois. Sullivan replied sharply. He intimated the contest was "framed up" because "outside influences wanted him to get out of state politics." He declared his opponents were "democrats all the year excepting election day, when their votes were needed."

Sullivan Grilled.

Judge Williams Prentice replied to Sullivan, and almost caused a riot by the vigor of his denunciation. "Why, this man is no democrat," he began. "I refer you to no less authority than Bryan himself. Throw him to the dogs where he belongs," continued Prentice, "then we will again be able to pile up the entire majorities so badly needed. If you do so and seat the men who earned their seats by true party work, we will see that the state gives the vote to Bryan as it should."

New York followed Illinois. McCarran, as leader of the contestants, was given the first say. He denounced

FLOOTY IS AGAIN TAKEN INTO COURT

SYRIAN FIGHTER SOUGHT A WARRANT FOR ASSFOR

INSTEAD HE IS ARRESTED

Chief Pugilist of North Side Colony

Released Until the Time of His Trial

Coming into court to secure a warrant charging a man with assault and battery only to have one charging assault with attempt to do great bodily harm served upon himself, is the unique experience of George Flooty.

After being arrested and fined for assaulting his son-in-law, Flooty was not satisfied but proceeded to start trouble with another one of his many relatives among the north side Syrians. Having learned the penalty for assault shrewd Mr. Flooty determined to make his "revenge" justifiable and proceeded to the home of one Abraham Assfor on the north side.

After casting remarks intended to incite Assfor, Flooty shoved his pugilistic jaw under the nose of his intended victim. Assfor, wishing to avoid trouble gave him a punch in the ribs with his elbow to shove him away.

This was all Flooty wanted and he sailed in and proceeded to do Abraham. Not satisfied with this he planned to complete his revenge by getting out a warrant for the arrest of Assfor.

"Well, what was the nature of the assault he made on you?" asked Judge Brindley when Flooty came in, clamoring for a warrant.

"I walka pata da man an he upa and soaka me in da rib!" shouted Flooty.

"Oh, well, that doesn't warrant the issuing of a warrant," said the judge. "you'll have to find a more serious charge than that."

At about this time Undersheriff John Mohr happened to be strolling through the corridors at the county building and hearing the noise made by Flooty stuck his head in the court room. There was his meat! Without a word he "ducked" to the sheriff's office and grabbing a warrant that had been laying on his desk for a couple of days rushed back to the scene of "disorder."

Flooty was just about to leave the room when the Undersheriff reached out and grabbing him with one hand proceeded to read the warrant. The warrant was one that had been taken out by Elias Assfor, another son-in-law of Flooty.

His hearing was held immediately and he was allowed to go, on his own recognizance until the date set for his trial.

George Flooty is the "King Bee" or rather was, among the Syrians on the north side. A number of years ago when the colony was first formed he acquired to the place of king among the people. He is regarded as the "bully." His fighting qualities have never been challenged. When the Syrians refuse to do what he wants, he licks them. When there is no excuse for fighting he seems to stir up something in order to keep in training. Warrants have been taken out against him by his own people on numerous occasions, but in each case the Syrians have come down in a body and clamored for his release.

At one time it was said that Flooty was carrying a large amount of money on his person and two men attempted to hold him up. They attacked him as he was coming down a stairway. He grabbed them and punched them at the head of the stairs and then threw them to the bottom. Before they had time to regain their feet he took a running jump and lit on the heads with his holed boots, and proceeded to do them. Since then 10 attempts have been made to hold up Flooty.

ed the district leader who deserted him and aided Tammany in his overthrow, as "political thieves who would stop at nothing to attain their own ends."

Hop on McCarran.

G. B. S. Williams, chairman of the anti-McCarren organization, caused a sensation by his opening sentence: "If this man McCarran tells you he will support Bryan when he goes home, he lies; don't forget this, he lies. He doesn't dare say he will either vote or work for the great party leader." He also accused McCarran of trading openly with republican leaders. Several heated verbal encounters occurred during the presentation of the Pennsylvania case, which was reached long after daylight. It required radical measures by the chairman to keep peace.

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, and general poor health, are the usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. The disease being deeply entrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, and the scrofulous and tubercular matter so thoroughly destroys the healthful properties of the blood that Scrofula sometimes terminates in consumption, an incurable disease. The entire circulation being contaminated, the only way to cure the trouble is to thoroughly purify the blood and restore the circulation to a strong, healthy state. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula; it renovates the entire blood supply and drives out the scrofulous and tubercular deposits. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and it not only goes right down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes the cause, but it supplies the weak, diseased blood with the healthful properties it is in need of, and in this way builds up weak, frail, scrofulous persons and makes them strong and healthy. S. S. S. is a gentle, safe, vegetable preparation and is suited for persons of any age. Book on the blood containing information about Scrofula and any medical advice free.

ALL "ROAD HOUSES" GET NEW LICENSES

THREATENED CLEANING OUT OF CAMPBELL FALLS THROUGH

BENNET MAY NOT CONTINUE

And for This Reason His License Has Not Yet Been Granted, But All Others Have Been

The "night hawks" will continue to carry their loads of "pleasure seekers" to the various resorts along the West Salem road, every road house with the exception of Jack Bennet having taken out a new license to run for another year.

Stories of the orgies that are carried on at these houses in the town of Campbell had reached the ears of the various members of the county and town boards and it was rumored that when license time came, July 6th, there would be some opposition to the granting of the various licenses. That this has died down is apparent, from the fact that all of the resorts have been granted licenses for 1909. In the case of Jack Bennet the only reason he did not take out a license, it is said, is the fact that he is undecided as to whether or not he will stay in his present location.

The only precaution that was taken towards restraining these places was when they were granted their license it was with the understanding that they would be revoked if at any time they, the proprietors, were caught disobeying the laws in any particular or if it were proven that they were running disorderly houses.

Five Others Dead. LINCOLN, Neb., July 8.—Lincoln experienced what was probably the worst flood in its history, causing the known loss of five lives and probably two others, minor injuries to several, a property loss which cannot be estimated, and almost total interruption of railroad travel to and from this city.

The homeless were being sheltered in public buildings and private residences. The known dead: John Nelson, drowned while trying to rescue stock.

Three children of Henry Amed; fell from a boat after being rescued from their flooded home.

Mrs. Schuester, who died from fright and exposure after being taken from her flooded home.

A young man named Gillard Nicolas was caught in the flood and climbed a telephone pole, and persons say they saw him, after clinging for hours fell into the water.

No trace of him has since been seen. The flood followed the greatest downpour of rain known here for many years.

WOMAN IN "BAD MAN" ROLE

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 8.—A woman giving her name as Mrs. Adolph Nelson and claiming to live near St. Paul, came into town Saturday night and put up at one of the rooming houses. In the morning she went to a lunch counter to get something to eat, and going behind the counter took possession of a knife and some dishes and threatened to clean out the establishment a la cowboy.

The proprietor sent for a policeman, who succeeded in capturing the woman and caging her. She appeared before the city justice and admitted that she was drunk and disorderly. She said it was morphine, but she admitted that beer also had something to do with it.

BITTEN BY MAN, WOMAN DIES

IOWA CITY, Iowa, July 8.—Mrs. Mary McElroy of this city is dead as the result of blood poisoning caused by her being bitten by a man. During a quarrel a week ago the man, whose identity has not been learned, sank his teeth in the woman's flesh. Infection set in and as the victim lived alone she had no medical assistance until the disease had progressed too far to be halted. Mrs. McElroy died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

CUT DOOR TO MOVE COFFIN

WATERLOO, Iowa, July 8.—Adam Strubel, heaviest man in Iowa, was buried at Eagle Center. He weighed 500 pounds and the casket was made to order, being thirty inches wide, eight feet long, and two feet deep. The coffin was too large for the hearse lowering device, and eight handles with strap attachments were required for the pall bearers. The undertakers were obliged to cut away a portion of the bedroom wall at the doorway to get the body out. Strubel was forty-three years old and did farm work until he got too heavy.

SICK MAN RETAINS CLAIM

GRAND FORKS, S. D., July 8.—Edward Johnson, in the county hospital here receiving treatment for tuberculosis of the leg, will not lose his claim. Officials of the Williston land office decided that Johnson's illness of the last four months was sufficient cause for him to absent himself from his claim and they ruled that the case of Catinka Visdahl should be dismissed.

TO OUST "TENDERLOIN"

DEADWOOD, S. D., July 8.—In the campaign for a cleaner Deadwood, morally as well as physically, Mayor Adams has issued orders to the police to close the "red light" resorts in the lower part of town and to round up the occupants, and either force them out of town or give them long jail sentences. It is purposed to make the war less notorious and less objectionable to pedestrians passing through the city.

NORTHWEST IN BRIEF

IOWA FALLS, Minn.—By the big ratio of 112 to 4 Dan Cupid beat out the divorce mill in Grant county the last year. Between July 1, 1907, and the same date for 1908, by a strange coincidence, there was the same number of marriages performed the last year as the previous twelve months.

SIoux FALLS, S. D.—As the result of several recent meetings an association has been organized in Brookings county for the purpose of purchasing and consolidating all the farmers' telephone lines in that county. The plan provides that after the consolidation has been effected the lines will have a common headquarters and will be under one management. The lines of the association will cover the entire county.

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D.—Through the successful floating of 6,000 logs 250 miles along the Belle Fourche river from the Bear Lodge country the need of a large sawmill here has been amply demonstrated. Local capitalists are inquiring into the sawmill outlook and it now is more than likely that a big plant will be erected here shortly.

TODAY'S GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago—Wheat: Fair weather everywhere with cables lower; may result in lower opening but inasmuch as government report is due just before the close expected to show considerable deterioration in all the grains during June we would suggest buying wheat, corn and oats on any weak spot today for quick profits.

Hogs are in larger supply than anticipated with market off 10c. Price of products have been advanced a great deal and without any reaction to speak of and following the filling of investment demands and discounting all bullish news and turn in the market to a somewhat lower level would not surprise us.—Miner & Co.

Inter-Ocean: Every day that brings increased hedging sales from now on necessitates a larger buying power by professionals and commission houses to overcome the pressure of actual wheat.

Live Stock Receipts. Omaha—Hogs, 8,500; cattle, 1,400; sheep, 4,500.

Kansas City—Cattle, 7,000; sheep, 5,000.

Liverpool. Opening—Wheat 1 1/2 lower, corn 1/4 to 3/4 lower, 1:30, wheat, 1/4 to 3/4 lower, corn 1/4 to 3/4 lower.

Hogs. Opening—Estimated receipts, 38,000; left over, 5,962; prospects generally 10c lower; light, $6.00 to $6.10; mixed, $6.10 to $6.70; heavy, $6.10 to $6.70; rough, $6.05 to $6.35.

Cattle—17,000; prospects steady to 10c lower. Sheep—15,000; prospects steady.

Close—Today, 38,000; tomorrow, 28,000; light, $6.00 to $6.60; mixed, $6.05 to $6.70; heavy, $6.05 to $6.70; rough, $6.05 to $6.35.

Cattle—17,000; good cattle steady, shade higher, others weak. Sheep—18,000; weak. Hogs more active at decline.

GARROTER GETS ONE YEAR AT WAUPUN

MICHAEL STANOVITCH SENTENCED AT GRAND RAPIDS

TRIED TO CHOKE COMPANION

Tries to Strangle His Friends to Secure Money—Light Sentence Due to His Plea of Guilty

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., July 8.—Michael Stanovich, a Russian, who was arrested last spring on the charge of assault with intent to rob Stanley Zdunek, pleaded guilty to an amended complaint charging assault with intention to do great bodily harm. He was sentenced to one year's hard labor in the state's prison at Waupun. The attack on Zdunek took place three miles north of the city, between here and Biron mill, while the two men were walking from Grand Rapids to Biron, on Sunday afternoon, May 10. They had just received their pay checks from the mill at Biron and had them cashed at a saloon. Stanovich proposed to Zdunek that they go into the nearby woods and rest themselves. Zdunek refused, saying that he was not tired and kept on walking along the lonely road with Stanovich immediately behind him.

The first intimation that Zdunek had of treachery was when Stanovich threw a rope over his head and around his neck from behind, twisting the rope until he nearly rendered Zdunek unconscious. Zdunek struggled desperately with his assailant and in the mixup caught Stanovich's finger between his teeth, biting him hard enough to make his assailant release his strangle hold and ran to the city for assistance.

TOWER BELL WILL STRIKE WELCOME

WATERTOWN, Wis., July 8.—When the Thirty Years' club made up of former residents who have been away from this city thirty years and more, meets Aug. 1, the night of the first homecoming day, its members will be welcomed by the mayor, not by the usual address, but by his ringing the city hall bell thirty times. He will also present each with a neat charm with the figure "30" in gold embossed on one side and the word "Watertown" upon the other.

At the business meeting each member will be obliged to hand the secretary a brief history of his or her career since leaving Watertown to be printed in book form and will be kept among the archives of the city. The oldest member of this club has been away from Watertown fifty-six years, while there are many who have been away between forty and fifty years.

BOY MAY LOSE SIGHT

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—Nicholas Paltz, the 14 year old son of John Paltz, who had one of his eyes destroyed by the explosion of dynamite on the fourth, was taken to Milwaukee today for medical treatment. The physicians hope to save one of the eyes, which was not badly injured. The boy was injured through the premature explosion of home made fireworks by some Italian laborers who used dynamite in them.

AN INTERNATIONAL MARRIAGE IN WIS.

MADISON COUPLE WILL BE WEDDED FRIDAY

ENDS A PRETTY ROMANCE

Met Under an Umbrella in a Blinding Snow Storm Last Winter and Engagement Is Result

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—Around a pair of eye glasses and a severe Wisconsin snow storm has been woven a romance of unusual interest which will terminate on Friday in an international marriage, the principals in which are representatives of old and prominent families in Japan and America. The bride is little Miss Ruth Mary Baltzell, younger daughter of the late Judge and former Mayor John Rigeley Baltzell of Madison, and a sister-in-law of P. P. Sandborn, vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee, and T. D. Sheldon of St. Paul, who graduated from Wisconsin in 1898. The prospective groom is Suyege Matsufuri—called Hattori by his college associates—and the only son of the celebrated and wealthy General H. Hattori, who lost his life in the last year of the Russo-Japanese war while his son was a student at the University of Chicago. An uncle of the groom is the owner of one of the largest Japanese pottery manufacturing plants in the flower kingdom, having its headquarters at Yokohama. Another uncle is a prominent captain in the Japanese navy.

Met on St. Valentine's Day. The romance had its setting on the eve of last St. Valentine's day. Cupid using as his tools a wax candle and an umbrella instead of the usual bow and arrow. Miss Baltzell was hurrying home in a raging snow storm after giving a vocal lesson. In front of the University Club house she lost her eye glasses in the deep snow, and she called at the club house, where Hattori was employed, seeking a lantern. Hattori responded to the bell, and in the excitement he brought an ordinary wax candle instead of the lantern. The tiny light sputtered in the wind and snow and went out. Hattori kept relighting it until he had but one match left, and Miss Baltzell raised her umbrella to protect the flame from the wind. Together they huddled under the umbrella and searched in the snow for the missing eye glasses. As they huddled under an umbrella their eyes met, and for the moment the missing eye glasses, the raging storm, the cutting wind, the little candle and all the rest of the world was forgotten. It was love at first sight, and upon returning home that night Miss Baltzell told a good friend that she loved and was loved.

Well Known in Madison.

Both of the young people are well known at Madison both in social, literary and musical circles. Miss Baltzell is a beautiful brunette, and Hattori is of the rugged, vigorous type, and he is known as the most handsome and cultured Jap in Madison. From the time of the outbreak of the war between Japan and Russia—Miss Baltzell has been intensely interested in studying the little brown men of the east, watching the papers, learning Jap songs, studying their arts and language. She speaks Japanese fluently, and one time she aspired to be a missionary to Japan.

Together with Bentano Kanyamer, now professor at the University of Tokio, she organized the Japanese-American club, a literary and social affair which still exists. While Dr. Lyenagawa, the eminent oriental lecturer, was in this city, he met Miss Baltzell and they became fast friends. His wife gave Miss Baltzell lessons in Japanese in return for instruction in English.

Son of Noted Jap General.

Hattori is a man of broad education. He was graduated from Wakiata University at Tokio, and studied medicine for three years at this institution. He then entered the University of Chicago, and remained there nearly three years, coming to Madison at the end of the first semester of the present year. In the fall he will take up his work in electrical engineering, and he will receive his degree next spring. He hopes eventually to return to his native land and follow engineering. He has great interest in his uncle's manufacturing plant and at some time will fall heir to an immense fortune.

Daughter of Ex-Mayor.

Miss Baltzell's father was mayor of Madison for two terms, and immediately after his election he was married to Virginia Robbins, and he entered into the milling business with her father.

Will Be Married Friday.

The marriage will occur Friday at 304 North Broom street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Laux, with whom Miss Baltzell is rooming. The service will be simple, and Rev. Van Elden of Grace Episcopal church will officiate. Only the members of the household will be present at the ceremonies. The bride's mother, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Sheldon, in St. Paul, will not be able to attend. The bridal party will be completed by Miss Nettie Brewster of Madison as bridesmaid, and Mr. H. Toda of Chicago as groomsmen. A supper will be served after the service. Mr. Hattori and his bride will reside temporarily in Madison at 514 State street.

CHIPPEWA FALLS' METERS TOO FAST

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—The state railroad commission held a hearing on the petition of former Secretary of State T. J. Cunningham for an order compelling the Chippewa Falls Water Works and Lighting company to reduce its rates and increase the efficiency of its service. The company contends that its present rates are reasonably low and its service adequate. Mr. Cunningham,

The Most Extraordinary Waist Sale Ever Known to La Crosse Women:

Thousands of Dainty Shirt-waists In a Sale at Less Than Actual Cost of Material! Prices On These Pretty Waists Cap the Climax of Value Giving! THIS REMARKABLE SALE WILL BE HELD IN THE MIDDLE—MAIN AISLE, ON THE FIRST FLOOR! Think of It! Handsome $1.25 Waists 69c—Or Two for $1.25.

Our buyer of ladies' garments struck luck in large nuggets again the other day. Found a manufacturer of women's shirtwaists who was too optimistic early in the season—planned for a hot, dry summer—and unbounded prosperity. Planned to sell twice as many waists as he sold last year, and made up stock accordingly. He overshot his mark—is sorry now, wishes he had the money the materials and labor cost him—and is glad to take half. Our wide-awake buyer heard of his predicament and went to him with an offer—OF JUST HALF! The unfortunate maker accepted the bid and the deal was closed which brings to us—and to you—hundreds of beautiful, exquisite waists of white, cool laces, made up in exceptionally fine workmanship, at a cost which gives you TWO at the price of ONE!

SO IMPORTANT IS THIS SALE THAT WE HAVE ARRANGED TO HOLD IT ON THE MAIN—1ST—FLOOR, IN THE CENTER AISLE.

We have cleaned off the center (Introductory) tables, the first you reach as you enter the main entrance from Main street, and loaded the waists onto them, arranged in sizes for convenient selections. A corps of our second floor sales-ladies from the great Garment Salons will wait upon the throngs. We have made it very convenient and easy for our force to handle an immense crowd of buyers with dispatch, giving every one the usual careful and courteous service this store's patrons have learned to expect. One word more—you'd better buy ALL THE WAISTS YOU'LL NEED FOR A YEAR AHEAD TOMORROW—you'll never get another opportunity such as this to save in buying. A word of detail. Your choice of any waist pictured above and many others—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 9th, 10th and 11th—if they last long—

SEE WINDOW—69c EACH OR 2 FOR $1.25—SEE WINDOW. BETTER BUY 2. This is the greatest value ever given in high class waists, not a waist in the lot worth less than $1.25; many worth $1.50 and $1.75. Somebody lost a lot of money and you can profit by it. Sizes 34 to 44. Special at69c each or 2 for $1.25

THE LID IS OFF IN SUPERIOR

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 8.—Attempts to raise the Sunday and 12 o'clock lid on the saloons of the city roused the ire of Chief of Police McKinnon, and he announced that strenuous measures would be used to keep the lid nailed down. He said the saloon keepers of Superior may just as well understand that the lid is on to stay. H. M. Gustafson paid a fine of $100 and costs for lid lifting today. The police went to his place last night and he refused them admission. They posted a man at each door and announced that they would stay all night. He soon opened the door and a search revealed three men hidden in the ice box.

OCONTO HEN SETS RECORD FOR LAYING

OCONTO, Wis., July 8.—Talking about eggs and hens that lay them. Gust Ansorge has a hen that will carry off the palm any day. Only the other day when Gust went to her nest he found an egg that was fully as large as the largest goose egg.

Breaking its shell he found another perfectly formed egg inside, and when he broke the shell of this one, lo and behold, he found a third inside of that. Three eggs, all hard shell at that, in one day is a record, it is believed, no other hen in Wisconsin can equal.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

GREEN BAY.—Mrs. Anna Wagner of this city and Mrs. Lucien Suffel of St. Paul are joint heirs to $300,000 left by their mother, who died at Polo, Ill.

BELOIT.—C. N. Vermuelen, a real estate dealer, was swept over the dam at Rockton while fishing in a row boat. He was thrown from the boat into twenty-five feet of water and was then washed to a sandbar.

SUPERIOR.—The United States Steel corporation is ready to begin operations at the head of the lakes, and within a few days work on the belt line road of the steel corporation, will be commenced.

MADISON.—The Wisconsin Zinc company, which filed articles here last week, has been incorporated in Maine. The capital stock is placed at $1,000,000 in $1 shares. The incorporators are P. E. Coyle, C. A. Hight, F. W. Batchelder, E. P. Thompson, W. H. Coolidge, Leroy L. High, W. M. Pike, H. L. Cram, H. P. Sweetser.

SUPERIOR.—As the result of the breaking of the law Sunday by one saloonkeeper, Chief of Police McKinnon says that if it becomes necessary to put one man at the door of every saloon in the city he will keep the lid on. Upon searching the saloon of H. M. Gustafson Sunday three men were found hid in the ice box. Gustafson was fined $100 and costs.

EAU CLAIRE.—Fireman Albert Heke of the Omaha road was seriously, if not fatally, injured by a heavy load of coal which became loosened through the breaking of a cable at Altoona. An improvised special train was made up to bring him to the hospital in this city. Besides internal injuries he suffered two badly crushed legs, one of which it is thought, will have to be amputated.

EAU CLAIRE.—Oscar Velle, the boy preacher of Winona, who is only 12 years of age, drew a large crowd at the Evangelical Free Mission church. The boy does not prepare his sermons, but said that he preaches "until the spirit leaves him."

CHESTER.—Four men and four women narrowly escaped burning to death in White Lodge cottage. They were sound asleep and almost surrounded by fire when an alarm was given. Those in the cottage were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bonney, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jacobson, Miss Clara Madison, and Archie Putnam, all of Chippewa Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobson of Eau Claire.

TAKEN WITH THE LOCKJAW IN BATTLE

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., July 8.—Edward Koch of Co. H, Wisconsin National guards, Manitowish, became a victim of lockjaw while shooting in a sham battle here. Koch arrived with his company in apparently the best of health and when about to return to his home complained of severe pains in the face. An hour later he was unable to move his jaws at all. Koch received a severe bruise a few weeks ago on his leg, the blood clotting at that place and proving painful. This is thought to have been the cause of lockjaw.

LA FOLLETTE'S MEN CONFER WITH TAFT

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—Attorney A. T. Rogers, law partner of Senator La Follette and republican national committeeman of Wisconsin, and Assemblyman H. L. Ekern have gone with Congressman H. A. Cooper of Racine to Hot Springs, Va. to consult William H. Taft, republican nominee for president. The party goes on invitation of Mr. Taft.

BAD STORM AT GRAND RAPIDS

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., July 8.—Grand Rapids and vicinity were visited by a severe electrical, wind and rain storm last evening, blowing down several shade trees and damaging crops in the country. The lightning struck the court house, demolishing the flagstaff and doing other damage to the cupola on the building.

The rain fell in torrents, raising the water level of the river.

Shows to La Crosse on Tuesday, July 21.

So vast have been the improvements of this great circus since it was last seen here that former acquaintance with the show can give but a meager idea of the splendor of this year's organization. With its new menagerie, another brilliant and costly opening spectacle, an all-star European company of performers and the awful automobile double somersault, the circus presents, even to its warmest friends, an entirely different appearance, more striking, more varied, brisker, bigger and more beautiful in its richly costumed ensemble than ever before.

Its entire outfit has been replaced with new material made in France, Germany and Japan. Great hand carved mahogany handwagons, floats and tableau cars of burnished gold, howdahs and thrones draped with Persian hangings; silver trimmed harness and flags, costumes and standards of the richest China silks give to the parade a brilliancy that is dazzling. The splendor and attractiveness of Ringling Brothers' street parade have long been the wonder of the whole of America and this year their records of the past are doubly repeated.

Also in the menagerie these changes for the better are noticeable. With a complete display of animal specimens and the inside of the great zoological tent arranged in the semblance of a tropical jungle, the student of natural history will find the hour between the opening of the doors and the beginning of the big show the most delightful he has ever spent.

It has been arranged to open a branch ticket sale in Young's drug store on the day of the show to better accommodate the great crowds who are sure to be in the city. Reserved seats and admissions will be sold there at the same prices charged on the ground.

DAMAGE SMALL DESPITE FLOODS

Despite the fact that the water is nearly at flood stage, there is very little damage reported as a result. A slight drop has been recorded since yesterday.

The farmers coming in from Minnesota report that the roads are not damaged by high water although towards Hokah they are in some places under water.

South of here there is no damage reported and the farmers are coming in every day the high water not hurting the roads in that vicinity.
